

DECENTRALIZED NETWORKS

AND

THE BLACK RADICAL TRADITION

In March 2020, the Network Weaver Community of Practice session was dedicated to unearthing what the Black Radical Tradition can teach us about how communities are self-organizing under crisis.

Digital Strategist, social entrepreneur, and faith-based organizer Jayme Wooten and former organizer and founding member of Black Lives Matter Global Kei Williams, led the session through a riveting presentation that highlighted how network weaving in movement building creates strong, sustainable, and participatory avenues of community engagement.

Sadia Hassan wrote a piece on the session. Read it HERE.

CLICK HERE to access the video of the session.